PELOTON

The power of the Peloton Commercial Subscription

All Peloton Commercial Series and Peloton Pro Series equipment requires its own dedicated Commercial Subscription. Below is an outline of the differences between a Commercial vs All-Access Membership.

	Commercial Subscription for commercial facilities.	All-Access Membership for home use.
Account Access	An unlimited number of users can access Peloton with the Commercial Subscription in three ways: login free Guest Mode, create a free account to use in any commercial setting, or login with a personal paid membership. Guest Mode is a new feature that allows exercisers to experience a rotating selection of Peloton class and scenic content without signing in.	The paid All-Access Membership allows the membership holder and a limited number of people in their home to create a profile on the same subscription.
Software Features - Peloton IQ Personalization	Exercisers enjoy weekly insights and personalized class recommendations.[1]	In addition to weekly insights and personalized recommendations, the tablet camera and audio enable Form Feedback and Suggested Weights.
Software Features - Connectivity	A new Offline Mode ensures reliable access to a limited selection of Peloton content regardless of connectivity status.	Exercisers must be logged in and online to enjoy Peloton content.
Privacy	Users are automatically logged out after 2 minutes of inactivity.	Users stay logged in on their at-home device.
Home screen	An always-on touchscreen features a dynamic video message designed to motivate exercisers to start training.	The touchscreen features profiles of Members who have used the device and goes to sleep after a few minutes of inactivity.
Security	All device settings, including facility Wi-Fi connectivity, are PIN-protected.	Any logged-in member can access and change device settings.
Purchase Options	5, 3, or 1 year subscriptions are sold at the time of equipment purchase.	All-Access Members pay monthly via credit card.

[1] Weekly performance insights require at least 3 recent non-meditation workouts. Personalized class recommendations require at least 5 recent workouts. Personalization must be enabled.

Separate Commercial subscription required for each piece of equipment. Commercial Preventative Maintenance sold separately.
